ABOUT

My passion has always been design. I love “arranging and integrating pieces” of all kinds, and over the years I’ve enjoyed designing in a wide variety of spaces such as interiors, gardens, theatre sets, graphic design, and my own studio. I soak in God’s amazing handiwork in nature, and I appreciate excellent man-made design anywhere I see it.

Holding a BFA from the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee, I started my career as an art teacher, inspiring students at all levels from grade school to university. “What’s in your heart, comes out in your art!” was a phrase they often heard me repeat.

In the late 90’s I became fascinated with the way individuals are uniquely designed to work well in teams, so I pivoted and completed my Master’s in Ministry Leadership through Rockbridge Seminary. I enjoyed a wonderful season, facilitating teams and coaching leaders by capturing their ideas and using my whiteboard to bring clarity for their next steps.

When I began to revisit my fine art roots in 2020, I decided to focus on using acrylics to capture the beauty I see in everyday scenes in central Wisconsin and places I travel. I’m especially drawn to colorful country scenes with meandering paths, water of any kind, flowers, and small town places that remind me of simpler times. I like to use touches of unexpected color, soft edges, loose brushstrokes, texture, and mixed media to express the joy and peace these subjects bring to my heart.

Diane O’Connor

“I paint to express my delight in the beauty of God’s creation, to calm my own heart, and to share with others the joy and peace within me.”
